Trantham Named Sunbelt Farmer of the Year for SC

As a result of his success as a dairy farmer, Tom Trantham of Pelzer has been selected as the South Carolina winner of the 2015 Swisher Sweets/Sunbelt Expo Southeastern Farmer of the Year award.

A pioneer who developed a grazing dairy and an on-farm bottling plant and creamery, Trantham plants forage crops throughout the year. This replicates the lush and nutritious grazing available during April on most farms. He calls his farm the 12 Aprils Dairy.

A native of North Carolina, Trantham bought land near Pelzer in 1978 and started his dairy. One day when his cows escaped and grazed lush plants, he discovered that their milk production had increased.

This discovery led him to develop the grazing dairy. He uses electric fencing to establish paddocks, and he moves his cows daily. With the 12 Aprils concept, cows constantly have new forage available. His forages include rye, ryegrass, several varieties of clover, sorghum, millet, alfalfa and oats. His 93-head milking herd produces 22,000 pounds of milk per cow per year.

His bottling plant is the Happy Cow Creamery, which is known for its eggnog, buttermilk and chocolate milk. The milk is pasteurized at a low temperature, but is not homogenized.

He and his wife Linda employ 11 people at the farm and bottling plant. Daughter Tammy manages the dairy and the grazing programs, and son Tom III runs the bottling plant and handles the farm's wholesale accounts. Daughter-in-law Ashley conducts the farm tours for children.

Tom Trantham enjoys spending time with his cows at 12 Aprils.

Trantham converted his blue Harvestore silo into the bottling plant. The Harvestore symbolized the old way of dairy farming, and the bottling plant represents the new focus, he said. Now, his milk travels no more than 48 feet from the cows to the milk bottle.

The Palmetto Series

What comes to mind when you think of college athletics? For some of us, it's tailgating, our favorite players, a big game coming up, or a good rivalry. Well, in South Carolina we have several fierce in-state rivalries. But the one that gets most of the attention is Carolina vs. Clemson. And, now Certified SC Grown is highlighting this rivalry to promote farm products to our consumers.

The new Palmetto Series, sponsored by Certified SC Grown, brings together folks who can't agree on who to pull for on the field to have a greater appreciation for what's grown in our fields. The series follows all head-to-head matchups between Clemson University and the University of South Carolina throughout the year. The winner of each sports matchup will be awarded a point.

But, this rivalry goes beyond the game, as any good fan of the Gamecocks or Tigers will tell you. Points will also be awarded for academic excellence and fan participation in a canned food drive to benefit Harvest Hope. Next year, after the points are added up we'll award a Palmetto Series trophy to the winner.

As SCDA staff track these matches, we will also share the story of South Carolina farms and farmers. Each month, check out the Farmer Spotlight on Palmetto Series social media channels to learn more about the amazing things agriculturalists are doing in our state. Follow the Palmetto Series on Facebook, and enter for a chance to win a Certified SC Grown gift basket filled with local flavor and fun that will look great at your tailgate. You'll also find tasty recipes featuring Certified SC Grown products to add some punch to your pregame culinary skills.

Agribusiness, South Carolina's leading industry, contributes nearly $42 billion a year to our economy and provides more than 212,000 jobs. At the Department of Agriculture, we work hard every day to ensure you enjoy safe, wholesome food proudly grown by our farmers right here in South Carolina. The Palmetto Series gives us one more opportunity to share the story of agriculture and its impact, both local and global.

As a graduate of the University of South Carolina and the father of two Clemson alumni, I know first-hand about the impact of this great in-state rivalry. I'm excited about this partnership that gives us even more opportunities to showcase our amazing agriculture. I look forward to working with both of these great universities to highlight athletes, farmers and food.

No matter if you're all in for orange or garnet in the Palmetto Series, don't forget to give a cheer to South Carolina farmers and all they contribute to collegiate athletics. South Carolina has a rich tradition in both sports and agriculture, and we hope fans will come together and continue to select Certified SC Grown. It's a matter of taste.

Pee Dee Farm Field Day Will Be Sept. 10

The Pee Dee Farm Field Day at Clemson University's Pee Dee Research and Education Center will feature two tours of row crop production from 8 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Tour 1 includes Soybeans, Grain Sorghum, UAV/drone demo & Peanuts.

Tour 2 includes Bioenergy crops, Sorghum, Cotton, Weed Management, Rainfall Simulator, Vegetable and Feral Hog Demo.

The tours will run simultaneously and are repeated, allowing visitors to participate in both tours. Presentations will be given by 18 Clemson University and USDA specialists, including an Unmanned Aerial Vehicle demonstration.

Recertification credits for SC licensed pesticide applicators and Certified Crop Advisers are available for those attending.

A vegetable growers meeting will be held after lunch to discuss growing winter vegetables. Growers will meet with Extension Commercial Horticulture Agents at the vegetable plots along the main entrance road from 2-4 p.m.

Topics include butterbean/pea production, irrigation installation/use, fertilization and the use of cover crops, strip-till and no-till for vegetables. Another segment will cover scouting for disease/insects, harvesting and packaging. For more information about the vegetable meeting, contact Tony Melton at amelton@clemson.edu.

On the same day as the Pee Dee Farm Field Day, the SC Department of Agriculture is partnering with the center to accept unwanted or unused pesticides from 7:45 a.m. – 2:45 p.m. Pesticides may be dropped off without attending the field day activities. For more information on this free collection event, or other questions regarding pesticide collection, contact SCDA Consumer Services Director John Stokes at jstokes@scda.sc.gov.

The Pee Dee Research Center is located at 2200 Pocket Rd., Florence. For more information about the field day call 843-662-3526.

Bellamy Elected President of Ag Ed Association

Nathan Bellamy of Loris was elected president of the S.C. Agricultural Educators Association during the association's recent conference at Clemson University.

A graduate of Clemson University with a BS and master's degree in Agricultural Education, Bellamy has completed 10 years as the agri-science instructor and FFA advisor at Loris High School. During this time, he coached five state championship FFA teams. He has been recognized as the outstanding agri-science instructor in South Carolina by the State Agricultural Educators Association.

The Loris High School FFA Chapter, under Bellamy's leadership, was presented a state Gold Emblem award this year and is competing for recognition as one of the top programs in the nation.

Bellamy and his wife Leslie have two daughters, Maribelle and MollyKate, and are active members of Tabor City Baptist Church.

The S.C. Agricultural Educators Association provides leadership opportunities for its members and recognition of outstanding agricultural education programs in secondary schools throughout the state.

Farmer of the Year

Trantham was Progressive Farmer magazine's Man of the Year in 2003. He has been active in many farm associations.

As the state winner of the Swisher Sweets/Sunbelt Expo award, Trantham will receive a $2,500 cash award. The overall winner, chosen from among nine other state winners, will receive $15,000.

South Carolina has had two overall winners, Ron Stephenson of Chester in 1994 and James Cooley of Chesnee in 2013. The winner will be announced on Oct. 20 at the Sunbelt Ag Expo farm show in Moultrie, Ga.

Interesting Ag Council Tour to Showcase Upstate

With four interesting site visits plus lunch and ice cream, the South Carolina Agricultural Council's fall tour on Sept. 11 is open to the public.

Tour-goers will see a variety of agricultural operations in the Upstate. From a top-of-the-line equestrian facility to the production of Clemson Blue Cheese, the day will offer many educational opportunities.

At TR Potts Performance Horses in Fountain Inn, people will not only see beautiful horses and an impressive facility, but can also witness the day-to-day operations of the farm. Demonstrations from farriers, veterinarians, instructors, and riders will give an inside look at an exciting equine operation that features top quality American Quarter Horses.

At Bart Garrison Agricultural Museum of South Carolina, people can see the history of agriculture in our state by viewing antique farm equipment and learning about the impact that equipment made on agriculture. They will also learn more about modern agriculture and hot topics within the industry. Equally exciting will be the delicious meal catered by Smoking Pig, a local favorite in Pendleton.

As one of our state's land grant institutions, Clemson University is a leader in the agricultural industry and offers insight into many different farm operations. On the tour, attendees will get an insider view at two unique agricultural ventures.

One of the afternoon's highlights will be watching the step-by-step process used to produce Clemson Blue Cheese, which is made with Certified SC Hickory Hill Milk. At Clemson's Aquaponics center, people will learn more about the rising popularity of that system's use. The tour will conclude with an ice cream social on campus.

The cost is $45. Seating is limited, and preregistration is required by Sept. 8. Participants should check in at 7:15 a.m. behind the Farm Bureau office on Knox Abbott Drive in Cayce. The bus will return about 5 p.m.

To reserve a space, contact Steve Slice at 803-360-2845 or scagriculturalcouncil@gmail.com.

The public is encouraged to participate.
